TAGGART AS A POLITICIAN.

His Career Not Noticeable Until Coy Took

Bim in Hand and Made Him Auditor.

A Journal representative yesterday had a talk with Mr. R. R. Shiel, who certainly knows a Marion county. The Journal man said to Mr.

Shiel: "You have heard a great deal said, have you not, in regard to Chairman Taggart's claims

"Yes," he replied, "and it has amused me a good deal to hear the Democra s, and even a few Republicans, taiking about Chairman Taggart's claims, and that he was a great political schemer. Now I happen to know what a great schemer he is. Mr. Taggart has had the reputation, and I have no doubt but that it is true, of being a first-class hotel man, as he has been in the business for a great many years; but I have never heard it said that he was a great watch-maker or plow-maker. I don't understand that he ever worked at that business; yet he may have taken one or two lessons; still I think he knows just as much about making a plow or watch as he does about running a county central committee, as he had no experience in politics, no more than he has had in making

"Let me tell you what he knows about politics. It has been my fortune to be in his ward ever since he has been in the city, up to three years ago, and if he ever had anything to do in politics more than vote, I never knew it. There bar not been an election in twenty years that I pave not stood at the polls from the time they opened until they closed, and certainly would know of any great work that Mr. Taggart had ever done. In fact, I have never seen him at have known him to come to vote in a carriage.

It is true that he had great success in the only campaign that he ever took part in, and that was under the leadership of Sim Coy. What I call a shrewd schemer in politics is a man of ideas, and I think when Mr. Taggart undertakes to work the same scheme that Mr. Coy worked, be will be completely left. I never knew the same scheme to work twice successfully in pol-

"What is Taggart doing specifically in that line?" he was asked.

"He has hired men to poll the wards, and three of his pollers that I know intimately are

Republicans, and will vote for Harrison, and he has paid them in accordance to the good work they do-good work means good showing for the Democrats from his stand-point. In many pre-

Democrats from his stand-point. In many precincts they have left off a large number of colored votes, and Republican votes, which, of course, will make a good showing, and on this he is endeavoring to bolster up and encourage his Democratic friends to bet on his poll. After the election, the friends that he is bolstering up now, and who are betting on his great political schemes, will be tempted almost to run him cut of town with the charge that he has deceived them.

them. There are no Democrats with any political judgment, who are betting on this county, as they know Harrison will carry it by a large majority. Taggart boasts of having made quite a number of Democrats in out counties bet that

Harrison would not carry his own ward, which has three Republicans to one Democrat in it."

"What have been the advantages both to Democrats and Republicans in this county?"

"In the last thirty years the county has been carried by every Republican President, from 300 to 3,000, with an average of about 1,800. Now, as we have the presidential candidate in the county, no one questions that Gen. Harrison is stronger in this county than any other candidate that could have possibly been nominated, and, in my opinlon, will carry it with a larger majority than any other man ever did carry it. Certainly no one who knows anything about politics expects him to carry it by less than 1.500 to 2,000, and I will stake my reputation that it will not be one vote less than 2.500 to 3,000. I have taken a few bets and give 1,500,

Henry Pettit's exciting melodrama of English life, "The Black Fing," is the attraction this week at the Park Theater, and two large audiences yesterday manifested their appreciation of the play and its presentation. It is a stirring drama, full of exciting scenes and climaxes. while the comedy element is so strong in it as to make it unusually entertaining. The escape of the convicts, when the black flag is boisted, and the cave scene are sensational and permit the introduction of special scenic and mechanical effects, which were received with favor. The company is one that gives the play an even and intelligent performance. Mr. Hal Clarendon, who plays the part of Harry Glyndon, the hero, is a manly and forcible actor, who was particuarly effective in the stronger scenes. Mr. E. F. Gardner made much fun in the comedy part of Sim Lazarus, and the cast otherwise was good. "The Flack Flag" will run all week, afternoon and evening, and is likely to draw

Survivors of His Old Regiment Speak Eloquently for General Harrison.

Hundreds of Them Tell of His Nobility of Deed and Character as They Observed It in Camp and on the Field.

No class of men in this campaign have been more earnest in their wish for General Harrison's election than the survivors of his old regiment, the Seventieth Indians. From the outset they have been active in the work of the campaign, to which they carried an affection and esteem for their old commander. As an expression of their desire and a tribute to the General, they give the following to the world: The survivors of the Seventieth Regiment, Indiana Volunteers, congratulate themselves because their old commander, General Benjamin Harrison, has been nominated as candidate for President of the United States.

They recollect the manly characteristics manifested by him in the camp, and the high soldierly qualities that adorned his character in the field. They recall his untiring efforts in perfecting his men in military tactics, his vigilance in the midst of danger, his courage in battle, his quickness to see the design of the enemy, and his swiftness to strike and

They recollect his care for the health, the food and the clothing of those who composed his command, and the resolute manner in which he kept the men from being imposed upon by shirkers of duty or arbitrary officers.

They remember his kindness to the sick and his habit of sharing the discomforts of army life with those in the ranks.

They can never forget his carrying the rifle and knapsack of the exhausted soldier, and his tramping through the mud while a foot-sore comrade occupied his place in the saddle.

When men have sacrificed home, have journeyed wearily together through intolerable heat, bitter cold, or the pelting tempest, have shared rough food and the cravings of hunger, have shivered with scanty covering through nights on the damp or frozen ground, have been in constant danger from the bullets of the enemy and the shafts of disease, have experienced a daily and rightly trial of covering have perienced a daily and nightly trial of courage, have ex-grieved together over the fallen, and joined at last in the same glorious triumph, a friendship is formed that will endure when partisanship and political ani-mostics have sunk into oblivion.

The fires of battle united us, and memories more precious than life hold us as one, so that the contest of our old commander is ours. Every noble impulse emanating from comradeship call upon all veterans from our reunited country to accept a leadership that will surely guide to victory

I think this is an advantage in favor of the Republicans, as there is a larger per cent of Republicans who are traveling men, and railroad men who have to leave the city on early trains who will get to vote, when otherwise they would not, and most of them live in these Democratic precincts. I have always found it in my ward that there were fifteen to twenty engineers and conductors that never got to vote when the polls were not open until 8 o'clock. This shrewd scheme, Taggart will find, is loaded, and will kick backward. Personally I like Mr. Taggart, as he has always been very gentlemanly to me and to every one else. There are hundreds of excellent gentlemen in the city engaged in various kinds of business who have been successful but would make a botch of running

After a brief period of inactivity, caused by various hindrances, the officers of the Indianapolis Sunday-school Association propose to inaugurate the work of that society at once and prosecute it with vigor. In order to bring their matters before the public they have arranged for a mass-meeting in the First Baptist Church next Sunday evening. They do not request the churches to abandon their services, although they will appreciate the courtesy should any do so. But they especially desire the presence of superintendents, teachers and friends of Sunday-schools generally. Speakers will be pro-vided, and the order of the exercises will be

The meeting will be in two parts, each devoted to the study and exposition of the international lessons with the view of preparing for the teaching of the ensuing Sabbath. The main section, open to all, will assemble at 11 o'clock A. M., and continue one hour, under the direction of Rev. J. E. Gilbert, D. D. The primary section will convene immediately after the close of the main section, in charge of Miss Kirby, open only to teachers of primary classes.

Dr. Gibert will pursue his accustomed plan of analytical, practical and spiritual exposition, aided by blackboard, maps and charts, with free catechetical and conversational exercises. Miss Kirby, who is an experienced kindergartner, will endeavor to make the primary section specially helpful in methods adapted to the least of the little ones, and in order to do this, half of each session will be given to the consideration of primary class plans according to a syllabus to The officers are also considering other measures for the good of the Sunday-schools of the city, among them a normal class, as contemplated in the organization of the society, and expect to set them forth as soon as the teachers' meeting is well established, and assurances are thereby given of the good will and co-operation of Sunday-school workers. Killed by the Cars.

The Commissioners Dispose of Charges Against Some of the Patrolmen. The Board of Police Commissioners met yes terday afternoon to consider the charges made against officers Breenan, Weirick, Kurtz and Beem. The charges preferred against Bresnan were dismissed by the consent of the complainant, Alfred Burdsall, who says that he has been satisfied that the officer innocently arrested him, believing that he was another party. Offieer. Beem pleaded guilty to the charge of smoking while on duty. He was restored, but a fine of five days' pay was imposed. The investigation of the charges against Weirick and Kurtz was postponed indefinitely, owing to the absence of the principal witnesses. Officer Beem thinks that the board was bard on him in fining him. He says that nearly every man on the force who is in the habit of smoking has for a year been doing so while on duty. Since Beem got into trouble the officers at the station-house adhere strictly to the rule. They go so far as to request visitors to throw away their cigars on entering the sta-

We will add to these contracts a clause AGREEING AT THEIR TERMINATION TO CONTINUE TO SUPPLY GAS AS LOW OR LOWER THAN ANY COMPETITOR WILL THEN SUP-PLY YOU. Also, when the time comes, as it surely will, when it will be hard work to get a gas supply from any company, we shall give the preferance to our early patrons. The inducement that is being held out by others that they will next year or some other time supply you at half price is MISLEADING and a SUBTERFUGE.

Buy only of the company that SELLS CHEAP NOW, and agrees in the contract to continue so to do. This gives you a certain advantage.
